

Privacy Policy

Introduction

Energy Saving Center (“Us”/ “We”) are specialists in the collection and provision of consumer data for marketing purposes and we are committed to protecting and respecting your privacy. We work with many of the UK’s leading brands to help them target their offers more precisely by collecting key purchasing information on their behalf. We provide such organisations with the key information they need to better target their products and services.

This Privacy Policy sets out the data processing practices carried out using the Internet and any other electronic communications networks by Us as well as data collected on our behalf for third-party marketing. If you have any queries or requests concerning your personal information and how we process it, please contact The Data Protection Officer at compliance@theenergysavingcentre.co.uk.

All data we capture will be used and held in accordance with the Data Protection Act 2018.

This Privacy Policy also sets out the lawful basis on which any personal data we collect from you, or that you provide to us, will be used, and processed by us. For the purposes of the Data Protection Act 2018 (the “Act”), the data processor is Energy Saving Center, Company No. 14321259. Registered in England. Registered Office: Vaughan Chambers, Vaughan Road, Harpenden, United Kingdom, AL5 4EE.

The personal information we collect includes your name, email address, contact telephone numbers, postal address.

How we use your Personal Information

We use personal information collected via this website for the purposes of:

- Providing information about products and services
- Providing and personalising our services
- Dealing with your enquiries and requests
- Administering orders and accounts relating to our data suppliers or customers (third party marketers)

Sharing your Data for Marketing Purposes

We will share your information according to the preferences you submitted via email or when you contact us by telephone. Your information may be used to send you details of products or services that we and our third-party marketers offer that have been identified as likely to be of interest to you. This will only be in accordance with the preferences that you indicated when you contacted us by email or called us on the contact number provided and in accordance with our lawful basis (below).

If you would like to change these preferences at any point, please email us at compliance@theenergysavingcentre.co.uk

Alternatively, you can write to us at: Energy Saving Center; Vaughan Chambers, Vaughan Road, Harpenden, United Kingdom, AL5 4EE.

If you decide to change your marketing preferences or opt-out of receiving marketing from our contracted partners, or to unsubscribe from our database, you may contact us at Energy Saving Center; Vaughan Chambers, Vaughan Road, Harpenden, United Kingdom, AL5 4EE or email us at compliance@theenergysavingcentre.co.uk. You must include your name, address, e-mail address and clear instructions regarding the changes you require.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing your Data

Your data must be processed using one of the valid legal bases defined by the General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR). When you provide your personal data, we process it using two different legal bases depending on the purpose, either consent or legitimate interest. We will never switch from one legal basis to another without your permission. The different purposes are summarised in the table below:

Purpose	For use by ourselves	For use by third parties (our clients and sponsors)
Marketing – by email	Consent	Consent – but only when you provide specific consent for a named organisation.
Marketing – by SMS	Consent	Consent – but only when you provide specific consent for a named organisation.
Marketing - telephone	Legitimate Interest – where your number is not registered on the Telephone Preference Service and the service being marketed is not subject to a cold-calling ban.	Legitimate Interest - where your number is not registered on the Telephone Preference Service and the service being marketed is not subject to a cold-calling ban.
Marketing – by post	Legitimate Interest - where you are registered on the Mailing Preference Service we will ask for your specific consent.	Legitimate Interest - where you are registered on the Mailing Preference Service we will ask for your specific consent.
Tracing, ID verification and credit reference	Legitimate Interest	Legitimate Interest
Profiling and analytics	Legitimate Interest	Legitimate Interest

Consent

In short this is where you consent to a specific organisation to contact you by a specific communication channel(s), for a specific reason, which in the context of our processing will be for marketing purposes. When we ask for your consent, we will do so by giving you the opportunity to tick a box online or answer a question on the phone. You are never obliged to give consent and you can of course withdraw your consent at any time as detailed throughout this policy.

Examples of where we use consent:

- ✓ We obtain consent for our brands (including The energy saving centre) to contact you by telephone or by email and SMS.
- ✓ To pass your contact details to named third parties where Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulation (PECR) apply
- ✓ To pass your contact details to named third party data recipients, where our client has specifically asked us to gain your consent to pass on your details.
- ✓ All cookies & similar technologies which do not meet the “strictly necessary” exemption under PECR.

When we obtain your consent, we will explain who the consent is for (i.e. which brand or organisation), how you will be contacted (by email, SMS or phone) and why (e.g. to provide a cheaper quote). We will provide your information to the brand or organisation who may only use your personal information for the purposes that you have provided your consent for.

Once you have given your consent, you can still control whether or not you continue to receive communications from us, or from third-party marketers.

Legitimate Interest

As a direct marketing organisation, we process personal information for various legitimate business purposes which include some or all of the following:

- ✓ To help make our communication more relevant
- ✓ To provide direct marketing communications which we think will be of interest to you
- ✓ To enhance our services for the benefit of our clients including verification and validation
- ✓ To better understand how our clients, interact with our services
- ✓ To determine the effectiveness of our and our clients’ promotional campaigns
- ✓ To identify and prevent fraud

Our legitimate business purposes relate to the following activities:

- ✓ Direct Marketing - Postal and telephone marketing by Us; including The energy saving centre
- ✓ Direct Marketing from other third parties, whose communications will be in relation to products or services which we believe are of interest to you based upon information which you have provided us.
- ✓ Profiling - We will profile your information for marketing purposes to help our clients deliver marketing communication that is more relevant to you (for more information, please refer to the profiling section)
- ✓ ID Protection & Tracing - This is in relation to appropriate agencies which we have listed below which could help protect your identity and prevent fraud.

We may process your data in the following ways:

- Pass on your personal information to our clients for marketing purposes who will send marketing to you. Marketing will only ever be from organisations operating within the industry sectors described below.
- To call you where we have obtained your details from a third party. We will always be named within their privacy policy as a party with whom they share your information; once contact is made, we will obtain your consent at the earliest opportunity. You will always be given the option to opt out should you not wish to hear from us again.
- To process your personal information for the purposes of customer analysis, non-automated profiling, and direct marketing to help us with our activities and to provide you with the most relevant information (providing this does not harm any of your rights and interests).
- To pass to our clients for use including tracing of individuals, verification and/or validation of the identity of individuals for the purposes of, but not limited to, anti-money laundering regulations, national security, crime prevention and detection, anti-fraud processes, asset recovery and asset reunification. More information on this can be found in the Credit References and other Agencies section.
- To determine the effectiveness of our clients' promotional campaigns and advertising, and to develop our products, services, systems and relationships with you.
- Processing your information to protect you against fraud when using our website, and to ensure our websites and systems are secure.
- To pass on your details to companies to help their clients tailor products and services which best suit your needs. They will also use your data for fraud prevention. More information on this can be found in the Marketing Services Providers section.

For all types of processing, we apply various measures to carefully protect your privacy rights. In considering the most appropriate legal basis, Energy Saving Center Data conduct Legitimate Interest Assessments. These are detailed evaluations of each type of data processing activity to ensure that we have balanced the need of the processing against the rights of the individual to ensure minimal privacy impact

Disclosures

We may disclose your personal information to other third parties when obliged to do so by law, or the disclosure is 'necessary' for purposes of national security, taxation and criminal or civil investigation and to the following:

- Business partners and outsource providers (such as external Compliance Support/Auditors)
- Suppliers we engage to process data on our behalf
- Regulators (such as the Information Commissioners Office)

Opting out or restricting Processing

Calls - To withdraw your consent for live or automated calls, you can add your name to the Telephone Preference Service which is maintained at this website address: www.tpsonline.org.uk

Post -You can withdraw your consent for postal marketing from anyone by adding your details to the Mailing Preference Service. For more details please go to www.mpsonline.org.uk

E-mail or SMS (text message) - You can unsubscribe from receiving e-mail or SMS marketing communications from any individual third party by using the instructions in any email communication such third party sends you (usually an 'unsubscribe' or 'STOP' link).

You can also opt out at any time from communications via any of the methods described by e-mailing us at compliance@theenergysavingcentre.co.uk. Please note that such opt-out will only apply to communications from those third parties with whom we have a business relationship. If you opt out this way, you may still receive communications from third parties with whom we have no relationship.

From time to time, we also supply data to these sectors via agencies/brokers. We ensure that these agencies/brokers are reputable firms. When we share data with organisations by industry sector, we do so using our legitimate interests.

Marketing Service Providers:

These are companies who collect data from Data providers, such as ourselves, and help their clients tailor products and services which best suit your needs. The Marketing Services Providers we work with are strictly limited to only those organisations who we have completed checks on and who will process your data in strict compliance with all laws, regulations and guidance relating to Data Protection. We will share your data under strict licence terms and using the legal basis of legitimate interests with the Marketing Services Providers listed below, who like us, will use it to create products and services to help organisations better understand the likely characteristics of their customers; communicate with them more effectively; and find others like them across a range of marketing channels. This will mean that you receive advertising from organisations within the industry sectors listed above that is more relevant to you, via direct mail or when you visit a website, mobile app or watch TV. The Marketing Services Providers will not however advertise their own products or services to you.

They link the personal information we share with them to cookies stored on your browser or device, which will collect information such as your IP address, browser or operating system type and version, and demographic or inferred-interest information.

Profiling

Profiling enables organisations to better understand who their customers are so they can make their marketing communications more relevant. We use the information you provide to match with our clients' data so that they will better understand the characteristics of their customers, such as age, hobbies and interests. This only happens when you are both on Energy Saving Center Data database and you are a customer of our client.

We do not give them specific information about you, but we will tell them how many of their customers are male/female or live in a certain city. We also help identify whether you have similar attributes to a typical customer of our client, so they can target you with offers of goods and services tailored to you.

Profiling enables organisations to segment or group people based on characteristics they may have in common with others. An organisation can then tailor their marketing communication accordingly. For example, if a client is marketing car insurance for new drivers, targeting people based on age would prevent them contacting older people who may have been driving for some time.

Profiling has many benefits for individuals. It can provide access to products or services more likely to be of interest to them, they can receive relevant offers and improved trust in the way personal data is being used. It may also help reduce nuisance caused by receiving products and offers that are not relevant or targeted correctly.

However, the ICO states that profiling could restrict the individual's freedom to choose or cause discrimination. Therefore, before carrying out profiling on behalf of our clients, we conduct due diligence to ensure that the purpose remains in line with the information set out in this privacy notice. We will also never profile you based on ethnicity, religion, politics or health as these are not valid reasons for which you should be targeted for marketing purposes and nor do we collect this information.

We also do not make automated decisions about you which have a negative impact on your rights. Marketing Services Providers we share your data with can also use profiling to target you for marketing purposes. You can ask us to stop using your data in this way at any time.

How long will we keep your data for?

The law allows us to retain your data for as long as it is required for the purposes for which it was collected; we will retain your data for as long as it remains accurate and up to date; and most importantly, for as long as long as you are happy for us to do so.

In addition, to help us maintain the most recent indication of your marketing and data processing preferences, we will provide you with ongoing reminders of your data subject rights with access to this privacy policy. We refer to this as engagement or notification recency. Therefore, our data retention policy considers the purpose, the legal basis under which it is processed and your most recent engagement.

- ✓ Marketing – where we process your data under consent, we will stop using it for marketing purposes after five years. Where we rely on legitimate interest, we will continue to process your data for ten years, unless we receive a notification from you that you no longer want us to hold or process your information; or we become aware that your data is no longer accurate.
- ✓ Profiling – we will stop using your data for this purpose after ten years unless we receive a notification from you that you no longer want us to profile your data.
- ✓ Tracing and Credit Reference – as this purpose plays an important function of protecting individuals, we will retain your data for 6 months. However, only basic name, date of birth and contact information is retained for this purpose.

In addition, when completing a lifestyle survey, you may provide us with information such as the make and model of your car or the newspaper you read. Where information such as this has less use over time, it will be removed sooner than the retention periods detailed above.

It is important that the personal data we process is accurate and up to date. Therefore, we regularly refresh the database against suppression lists and remove those who no longer wish to be contacted. As we explain in the section, ‘What are your rights?’ you can withdraw your consent to us at any time.

Data Collection from other sources:

In order to keep consumer records as up to date as possible we use third party products to help us verify and suppress data.

- ✓ Telephone Preference Service (TPS) and Mailing Preference Service (MPS) - Managed by the Data and Marketing Association (UK) Ltd, these are central registers of individual's who do not wish to receive unsolicited marketing calls or direct mail. You can register for free at <https://www.tpsonline.org.uk/> and www.mpsonline.org.uk/

From time to time, we will also use third parties to supply data subjects' personal information to us for marketing purposes.

Where you have completed a marketing survey either online or by telephone and an Energy Saving Center Data brand is named in the privacy policy as a company with whom your information is shared, Energy Saving Center Data relies on legitimate interest for this processing.

- ✓ eGENTIC UK Ltd - <https://www.egentic.com/uk-leads/>
- ✓ Qubiq Digital - <https://www.qubiqdigital.com/>
- ✓ WRM-Media Ltd - <https://wrm-media.com/>
- ✓ Latch Media Ltd - <https://www.latchmedia.co.uk/>

When we do collect information from third parties, we always check that they have a valid lawful basis to process and share your data with us.

Your Data Protection Rights

You have several rights under data protection law, including:

- ✓ Right to be informed - When we collect your data, we must tell you what we are going to do with it primarily through this Privacy Policy and consent statements.
- ✓ Right of access - You have the right to contact us verbally or in writing to request details of the information we hold about you.
- ✓ Right of rectification - You have the right to ask us to correct information that we hold about you if it is inaccurate or incomplete.
- ✓ Right to erasure - This is also known as the right to be forgotten and gives you the right to request your information be removed if there is no compelling reason for its continued processing. We will keep a list of people who have asked not to be contacted which we use to ensure that you receive no further marketing from our group or clients as a result of you opting out or withdrawing consent. Without this list your data could enter our system again from another source and we would have no record of the fact that you asked us not to contact you.
- ✓ Right to restrict processing - this is the alternative to erasure and gives you the right to tell us to stop processing your data in certain ways but allows us to keep enough information about you to ensure that your wishes are respected in the future.
- ✓ Right to data portability - this gives you the right to ask a holder of your information to transfer that information to another business. This right is most used when switching banks, insurance companies, utilities companies and mobile phone providers.
- ✓ Right to object - you have the right to object to the processing of your data for marketing purposes and profiling for marketing purposes. You also have the right to ask us to cease processing based on our legitimate interests, where there is no overriding justification for the processing of your data. Your rights and freedoms override our interests.
- ✓ Rights related to automated decision-making including profiling - we do not use automated decision-making processes which would have a potentially damaging effect on you. But if we did you have the right to obtain human intervention, express your point of view, obtain an explanation of the decision and challenge it.
- ✓ Right to withdraw consent at any time where relevant - you have the right to withdraw your consent to the processing of your information at any time and we must provide you with the information to need to do so, at the time we collect your data and each time we contact you. You can withdraw consent in the following ways;

In writing to: The Data Protection Officer, Energy Saving Center, Vaughan Chambers, Vaughan Road, Harpenden, United Kingdom, AL5 4EE;

By email to: compliance@theenergysavingcentre.co.uk; or by telephone on: 01442250099

- ✓ Right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority - If we cannot deal with your complaint to your satisfaction you also have the right to complain to a relevant supervisory authority; The Information Commissioners Office; Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, SK9 5AF, or call: 0303 123 1113 or online at <https://ico.org.uk/make-a-complaint/and>

Security

All third-party users of your data are required to adopt and implement best practice security measures to prevent the loss of or unauthorised access to your personal information. If you have any queries or concerns about the data usage please contact us by emailing us at compliance@theenergysavingcentre.co.uk.

Internet-based transfers

Given that the Internet is a global environment, using it to collect and process personal data necessarily involves the transmission of data on an international basis. This means for instance that data you pass to us may be processed outside the European Economic Area, although the data will always be held securely and in line with the requirements of UK data protection legislation. By communicating electronically with us, you acknowledge and agree to our processing of personal data in this way.
